and the DOT to work together, letting the road contractor handle the utility line problem.

"Birchall said he would have plans for the removal of the lines in about 50 days." Jones said, "but that will probably mean a delay of about four to five months."

Belle Glade Mayor Aubrey Farmer said later he was the plan of what was discussed at the meeting but said the plan of what was discussed at the meeting but said the plan can be right. Farmer said. "The city's gioing to take care of the lines and we'll probably do it with city forces."

Farmer said the commandancers, among hermaelves, figured the removal of the utilities could be accomplished for $125,000, "and we figured the made by Birchall took the $425,000 estimate made by Birchall compared to the $425,000 estimate made by Birchall contains of or using all new lines, valves and pumps and didn't take into consideration, the money the city would receive for salvaging some of the line.

"Till guarantee you one thing, though," Farmer told Jones Wednesday. "The City of Belle Glade insit going to hold up the four-laning of State Road 80."
